HONGKONG'S NEW GOVERNOR
FAREWELL PUBLIC DINNER IN OCEAN.

The Hon. Mr. R. E. Stubbs, C.M.G., Governor of Hongkong, who left Ceylon for Hongkong on April 10th, was "wined and dined" by a representative gathering at the Galle Face Hotel, Colombo, on March 20th. H.E. the Governor, Brigadier-General Sir W. H. Manning, presided, and covers were laid for over 100. After the toasts of the King and the Governor had been drunk, the Hon. Mr. Ponnambalam Ramanathan, K.C., C.M.G., Educated Ceylonese member of the Ceylon Legislative Council, proposed the toast of the evening.

Mr. Ramanathan said:—We are assembled here to night not only to manifest our regard for Mr. Stubbs for the six years of public and social service which he has done to the peoples of Ceylon, but also to congratulate him on his well-merited promotion as Governor of Hongkong, and to wish him long life, prosperity and success in his new sphere of work.

It must be gratifying to him to see that of those who are gathered around this table the vast majority—more than three-fourths—are Ceylonese gentlemen of light and leading. All the Unofficial Members of the Legislative Council, and the chiefs of our Banking, Commercial, and Agricultural Associations and other Europeans and Ceylonese of high position are here to acknowledge his integrity and devotion to duty and to wish him God-speed. It would have delighted us to have had the company of that section of able and earnest men of the Ceylon electorate who think that their participation in tonight's function may weaken the cause they have at heart.

In a Crown Colony like Ceylon, the Governor is really the Government, for though the Governor is bound to consult the Executive Council in all matters of importance, he is free to act in opposition to such advice, and even in this case he is entitled to the obedience of all the officers of the Executive Council. Furthermore, according to their oath of office, they are not at liberty to disclose anything that has occurred in the Council. Therefore no one outside it can know what opinion any member of the Executive Council has offered to the Governor. Though the Governor summons and presides over the Executive Council, he is not of it. He is thus free to declare to the public his policy and the reasons which necessitated it. As Colonial Secretary, Mr. Stubbs had to be the obedient servant and the mouth-piece of the Governor.

Our observation of Mr. Stubbs is that he is perfectly straight and frank. In manner and speech abrupt, he has no time for misleading phrases. He has admitted in Council that he himself and other officers of the Government have made mistakes. Not ashamed of mistakes in the honest discharge of his duties, he does not resent to the shafts of those who believe that they are always wise or try to leave that impression on others.

Mr. Stubbs, we believe, belongs to the order of quiet rulers, whose chief aim is to make the people comfortable and carry them along with him gently, as far as they would willingly go. He has not posed as an all-knowing man. We have not seen in him the vice of being too sure of his ground in a country that is full of new perspectives so different from those he knows in England. He has not taken the time to survey the funds of the people and wasted them, as previous rulers have done, on schemes which have little to do with the improvement of the people. They should be cared for before all others. They should be the first to be well fed, clad, housed and taught.

Our Gracious Sovereign George V. has brought home to us the great truth that the King of a country is the first servant of the people. If the moneys that should be spent on their amelioration in the first instance be spent on increasing the salaries of their servants, on building houses for them to live in better comfort and style than citizens of average competence, and on expensive works like the Colombo Lake Channel scheme, new asylums for the mad and so on, there will be little left for the direct betterment of the people.

We think that Mr. Stubbs' career in life is destined to make him better and wiser every year. He may well thank his stars—he is grateful to God—for his enlightenment in the toils of a father who was an intellectual as he was spiritual, for his birth in England, which stands for freedom, equality of all men and uplift of the fallen—for his training in one of the greatest seats of learning, Oxford itself, famous for its course of humanities—for seeing in the Colleges of the West the evils of irreverence, flippancy and materialism for entering upon the severe discipline of the office of H. M.'s Imperial Minister in charge of all the Colonies—for his travels to Eastern and Western countries on official duty—and lastly, for the six years of sojourn and hard work in this lovely Island, whose very atmosphere is steeped in philosophy and gentleness.

In the course of six years of association with him in public duty I have seen

GREAT CHANGES IN HIM.

Mr. Stubbs of 1913 is not of 1919, nor of 1918. He has grown in love and light, in broad sympathy and truth. "The growth is so mysterious, like the conversion of the sinner, that I have evidence that he does not know the change in him! For, one day, while we were sitting on a Committee of the Council and discussing a man's case, he exclaimed: 'Has any one seen the humane at any time?' 'Yes, many a time,' I said, 'you have been humane without your knowing it.' He seemed highly amused. From his point of view, it is all dry duty! Elsewhere, in the Legislative Council, when we were taking leave of him, I referred to his affability and sympathy with his subordinates. He does not feel a cubit high when they approach him. They feel comfortable in his presence.

He has raised the tone and aspirations of the members of the Clerical Service. He has strongly recommended wider openings in the Civil Service for Ceylonese, and I hope H.E. the Governor will give the Legislative Council an early opportunity to consider carefully in what respects amendments may be necessary.

It is not generally known how hard he has worked for the admission of Ceylonese recruits to the British Army, and for securing free passages and outfit for volunteers proceeding from this country. He is our best friend among the officials of the Legislative Council—the cause of higher education. He expressed in August, 1917, his hope that in a short time a University College would be established and that it would expand into a University before he left the Colony. Evil times, arising out of the war, befell us in August, 1917, and now that he is leaving us, we are in despair. But the silver lines of coming prosperity are already visible on our horizon.

He goes with certain knowledge that Ceylon has already begun its new career of good fortune. Standing on it, we congratulate him on his good fortune and wish him plentiful success in his sphere of work. We wish him and Mrs. Stubbs long life and prosperity. They have both worked together with extraordinary patience, perseverance and skill, not only for the welfare of Ceylon, but also for the encouragement and comfort of the heroes who have been fighting for the Empire. Let us manifest our great regard for them. I propose to you the toast of the evening—honour, health, long-life and prosperity to Mr. and Mrs. Stubbs.

The toast was drunk with musical honours.

MR. STUBBS' REPLY.

Mr. Stubbs, replying, said that a speech at a farewell dinner necessarily partook in some degree of a funeral oration in which somebody said the best he could of a deceased person. (Laughter.) Possibly the position of the deceased was to be envied in that he had not to reply to the speech. (Renewed laughter.) Continuing, he said that he felt it very difficult to express his feelings. His pleasure at being promoted to another Colony was very much qualified by his sincere regret at leaving this pleasant island where he was glad to think, he had many friends, though it was impossible for him to suppose that he did not leave a certain number of enemies. He might say, however, that if he had made enemies it was not with intention but because he had taken throughout a course which he felt to be right. (Loud applause.) He felt that he must plead guilty to the indictment of Mr. Ramanathan that he was abrupt in manner and in speech. With regard to the abruptness in speech he was afraid that it was a physical and mental defect which could not be cured. With regard to abruptness in manner a large part of the blame might be attributed to the acoustics of the Council Chamber, where it was a great strain to catch what was said by a speaker on the opposite side of the table.

Mr. Ramanathan had hinted gently that they had occasionally had a difference of opinion in the Chamber. That was perfectly true, but it was only due to the fact that Mr. Ramanathan and he felt strongly when they felt at all, and then they felt it necessary to express their opinion in the most eloquent terms. Mr. Ramanathan and he, apart from their public appearances in Council, were the best of friends and they had worked together for six years—he was astonished in looking back on those six years to count the number of occasions on which they had agreed. When they had not he was quite prepared to admit that he was quite wrong. (Laughter.) But he had felt at the time that he was right and he had been quite prepared to act on the convictions of the moment. He felt sure that Mr. Ramanathan felt no grudge against him on that account.

Mr. Ramanathan: No, not at all. Mr. Stubbs added that he would not follow Mr. Ramanathan in all his disquisitions with regard to the Constitutional position of the Colonial Secretary and the other members of the Executive Council. Nobody would say from his public utterances that he did not agree with the policy of the Governor at the time. He had been brought up in a school of somewhat aversus mingling, as Mr. Ramanathan had remarked, but although that discipline had been severe it always went on one principle, and that was to encourage every member of the Colonial Office to express his opinions as fully and fearlessly as possible, but with discretion and over-riding in a matter of policy to carry out the policy laid down. That was a course he had always followed and he intended to follow, and he would recommend it to his successor. It would enable the Government to be carried on the most satisfactory manner. (Applause.)

He feared that he had done little of what he had hoped to do when he arrived in the Colony; but it was through no fault of his own but was the fault very largely of the German Empire. (Laughter.) A favourite project of his choice, which would have cost a few hundred rupees, was an institute for medical research which he considered to be most necessary for the Colony, for it would have enabled them to investigate the causes of diseases which, at present, played havoc in the country.

Concluding, Mr. Stubbs said that he parted from his Ceylon friends with a deep regret. They would always occupy a very high place in his affections. (Applause.) The Colony had treated him extremely well. He had spent six happy—though strenuous—years in working for it to the best of his ability, and he trusted that whatever the opinions of the gentlemen present and those not present might be of him, he had succeeded in doing no wrong—he hoped that they would believe that every action he had taken since he came to the Colony had been actuated by a desire to do the best he possibly could for it. (Loud applause.) The gathering then broke up.

CANTON NEWS.

CANTON, April 13th.

SERIOUS SITUATION AT SWATOW.—A report from Swatow states that the importation of 20 cases of unsigned bank notes was discovered by the Customs officers the other day. The notes were bought in Japan by a certain military leader, through a foreign firm in Swatow, and were to be issued as military notes. As the importation was a breach of Customs regulations the Commissioner has refused to allow it. While the cases were being loaded on to a vessel, a body of armed troops rushed to the spot, pointed their rifles at the Customs officers, and forcibly carried away the notes. The matter was reported to the British Consul, who, after making investigations, referred it to the British Minister in Peking.

THE SHANGHAI CONFERENCE.—A Shanghai message states that the Peace Conference met on the 11th inst. Financial questions were discussed, and the envoys approved the demand to abolish the likin on goods.

PEKING CABLE NEWS.—It is reported that Japan has agreed to Chinese and Japanese supervision of the Kachow Chaiwan Railway.

Chang King-yew, the Tschun of Hunan, has received two very large consignments of ammunition, which he ordered secretly from America last year. The matter is being investigated by the American Government, but it is too late to have the agreement cancelled.

Telegrams have been received in Peking stating that a Provisional Government has been established in Korea.

CHRISTIAN ENVOY TO PARIS.—Tau Him, Minister of Civil Laws to the Military Government, tendered his resignation to the Military Government, on being appointed the representative of Chinese Christians to make an appeal to the Paris Conference, demanding certain religious rights. Tau departed for Europe on the 6th inst.

PRESENTATION TO MRS. STUBBS.

The ladies of Colombo, representative of all communities, entertained Mrs. Stubbs to an "At Home" on March 20th.

Mrs. W. H. Figg read an address, and at the conclusion of it, presented Mrs. Stubbs with a pretty pair of pearl earrings and a brooch set with pearls and brilliants. The address was enclosed in an ornamental silver casket and read:—

"To Mrs. R. E. Stubbs, 'We the ladies of Ceylon have met here this afternoon to bid you farewell on your departure from the Island.'

"In wishing you good-bye we do so with mixed feelings. On the one hand, we share with you the pleasure of the knowledge that His Majesty the King has been pleased to appoint your husband to the important post of Governor of Hongkong. On the other hand, that pleasure is tinged with regret when we realise that that promotion means our being deprived of your society amongst us.

"We shall always look back with pleasure to the time you and your kind-hearted husband spent in Ceylon. You have endeared yourselves to all sections of the community.

"Requesting your acceptance of this token of our affection we hope that it may at times remind you of the many friends you have left in this Colony. Once more we wish you 'Good-bye,' and may you and yours enjoy all happiness and prosperity in the future."

MRS. STUBBS' REPLY.

Mrs. Stubbs said:—Mrs. Figg and ladies, when I heard that you were giving me a farewell party it came to me as a great surprise and I really do not know what to say to you in thanking you but that I appreciate it very, very deeply. In saying "Good-bye" to you I feel I am leaving many great friends and—perhaps the best years of my life have been spent here. These six years have been anxious years, years in which we have all worked together for the common cause, and I feel sure I am proud to say that we shall look upon them with happiness. I have had the pleasure of having my children here with me. But after this, as you know, I shall have to leave them in England. For both personal and official reasons they have been happy years. I very much appreciate your kindness to me and these beautiful gifts. They will be souvenirs of my friends in this Island. I hope sometimes you will remember us, and in years to come we hope to see you all again when we pass through Colombo. I can only say I thank you very much and "Good-bye."

TRADE REPORT.

EXPORTS

WOLFRAM ORE.—This market can be described as dead. Wolfram ore, for which there was a great demand during the war, was recently quoted at U.S.$7.50 per unit. This is practically down to the normal price of U.S.$6.50 a unit which obtained before the war demand raised it to as high as $75 gold per unit.

BEANS.—The Bean market is very quiet. Kotenashi Beans were quoted f.o.b. San Francisco, during the past month, at between 4 and 10 gold cents, but dealers are not interested in buying even at 5 cents gold per lb.

WALNUT MEATS.—The importation of Walnut meats into America is more promising. A mixed assortment of halves, quarters, and pieces was recently quoted at an average price of 42 gold per lb.

EGG YOLK AND ALBUMEN.—The growing demand for China's egg products has created a large industry in the past few years, which shows possibilities of further expansion, because these products afford an excellent medium for reciprocal trade between the United States of America and China.

PEANUTS.—We are fully convinced that this trade is now absolutely in Japanese hands. The Shipping Conference for the Trans-Pacific route still ask an exorbitant rate of freight on shelled nuts, but the freight from Kobe to the Pacific Coast is considerably lower than from this Colony. The closing quotations are 30/32 at $12.75 per picul, 32/34 at $12 per picul, and 36/38 at $11.75 per picul.

PEANUT OIL.—No. 1 at $20.20 and No. 2 at $19.75 each buyers.

CASSIA.—Saigon, 2/6/19 assorted is quoted at $44.50 without business.

CASSIA OIL.—75/80 per cent. at 227.50, and 80/85 per cent. at $237.50 without enquiries—both buyers.

GOING BEGGING.

TEA OIL.—Small business is reported at $18.

WOOD OIL.—Chinese dealers have lowered their prices to $20 without results.

TIN.—59 per cent. is quoted at $65, 98 per cent. at $65, and 98 per cent. at $60, but there is no business.

LARD.—Prices have gone up to $35 for new tins, stocks being exhausted. (Good business was put through last week.)

GALVANIZED.—$40.75 find no buyers.

STARCHED.—Business may be feasible at $24.50.

HIDES.—Cows, 85 lbs. at $94; and buffalo, at $85 for 15/40 lbs. are in demand.

ANTIMONY.—Nominal quotation at last week's price.

RICE.—A spasmodic Cuban demand sprang up lately, but has since subsided.

Japan exporters in Nipponland took advantage of the situation by sending ship-loads at considerably lower price than the local firms can afford to sell.

Siam Saigon rice, due to higher rate of freight, owing to the aforesaid demand, our market has risen and closes strong at:—

$8.40 per picul, for Siam Garden.

$9.10 per picul, for Siam Straight.

$9.60 per picul, for Siam Usual.

$9.70 per picul, for Siam Long.

$9.80 per picul, for Siam Round.

SPORT.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

HONGKONG LEAGUE—DIVISION II.

STAFF AND DEPARTMENTS, 4; S. CHINA ATHLETIC, 2.

This match, played on the Club ground on Saturday, did not start until 3.30 p.m., the Chinese having difficulty in raising players.

Several first team players were called upon as a last resource to form the eleven. The ground was in bad condition after the recent heavy rains, the water lodging in pools in several places, and being the cause of plenty of amusement for the spectators during the game. From the kick-off, the Staff took charge of the situation, and Ellarby was soon prominent, testing the opposing goalkeeper with a stinging shot, which, however, was stopped and cleared. Skelton had hard times shortly afterwards in being ruled off-side with only the goalkeeper to beat. The Athletic were rarely dangerous, Souler and Wain being able to stave off the half-hearted attacks before their goal was in jeopardy. Skelton opened the scoring for the Staff, netting after a prolonged scramble in the vicinity of the Chinese goal. Two more points at least should have followed, but the wretched state of the ground made good shooting almost impossible. The interval arrived with the Staff one up.

In the second half, Lau King Cheong, who had been playing on the right wing, went back to his usual position in goal. He was soon called upon to defend his charge, for the soldiers' forward line played up well, and gave him plenty of work. Ellarby eventually beat him with a lovely cross-shot, the pass coming from Street. Play was transferred for a while, to the other end, the Chinese forcing three corners in succession. "Hands" on the third, against Ellarby, gave the Reserves a penalty, which, however, was not used to advantage, Glennie saving in good style. The Athletic opened their account shortly afterwards, the centre-forward beating Glennie with a high dropping shot. The soldiers soon responded with their third goal, Street having little difficulty in finding the net after a hard drive from Ellarby, and struck one of the uprights. Knight was responsible for the fourth, a good shot from a Staff corner giving the custodian no chance whatever. In the latter stages of the game, the Chinese did most of the pressing, and the "centre-half" broke through, and, with only the goalkeeper to beat, shot high over the bar at a distance of only six yards, missing an almost certain goal. Their determined efforts, however, were not without avail, the centre-forward beating Glennie with a good shot, which passed just beneath the bar. This was the final goal of the match.

DOGS AND POULTRY. A VERY SUCCESSFUL SHOW. MR. J. G. KYNOCHE THE POULTRY CHAMPION

Although the weather was inclement on Saturday, it did not prevent a large gathering from visiting the annual Hong Kong Dog and Poultry Show, held on the racecourse. Amongst those present were H.E. the Officer Administering the Government, Sir William and Lady Rees Davies, K.C., Mr. Justice C.D. Melbourne, the Hon. Mr. P.H. Holyoak and Mrs. Holyoak, the Hon. Mr. D. Landale, the Hon. Mr. S.H. Dodwell, Mr. H.P. White, Mr. and Mrs. S.B.C. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. R.M. Dyer, Dr. Forsyth, Mr. E.V.M.R. de Sousa, Mr. H.B.L. Dowbiggin, Mr. T.E. Pearce, Mr. R.E. Bellios and M. Paul Kramer.

There were altogether 57 entries in the canine section. Although fewer than last year, it was admitted that, on the whole, a better type of dog was bunched, the improvements being especially marked in one or two of the classes. The judging for which Messrs. A. Gibson, H.J. Gedge, G.W. Gegg, and J.F. MacCarthy were responsible gave more general satisfaction than at some previous shows. The championship for dogs was awarded to "Dunadoo Darkie," a fox-terrier owned by Mr. A.H. Taylor. The judges decided that the best bitch in the show was "Ch. Ricardo Belle," a bull-terrier, owned by Mr. Leo Longinotto.

The sole judge of the poultry section was Mr. J. F. MacCarthy. The exhibits, in each section, were the best procurable in Hongkong. Several birds lost marks on account of smallness in size, light eyes, faulty lobes, paucity of feathering, or hunched feet. There were altogether 150 odd birds shown for competition in the several classes, and the judging, which commenced in the morning, occupied several hours. Mr. J. G. Kynoch was the most successful exhibitor, winning the Championship with his aggregate number of wins. Mr. J. C. Wong and Mr. H.B.L. Dowbiggin tied for second place, with Mr. A. Karmm only one point behind.

Mr. Leo Longinotto's decision to refrain from competition lent an added interest to the show. Mr. Longinotto exhibited his birds, which formed a welcome and interesting feature. They were from the Victoria Experimental Poultry Farm and were as follows:—Plymouth Rock Cocks. Winner of 1st prize, Victoria, B.C., January, 1918; ditto, Hongkong, April, 1918; special for best cock in show, Hongkong, 1918; 1st prize, Canton, January, 1919; special for best Plymouth Rock Cocks in show, Canton, January, 1919; championship, Canton, January, 1919. Plymouth Rock Hens. Winner of 1st prize, Hongkong, April 1918; special for best Hen in show, Hongkong, April, 1918; winner of 1st prize prize, Canton, January, 1919; special, best Hen in show, Canton, January, 1919.

Brown Leghorn Cocks. Silver Wyandotte cockerel, ditto, Buff Orpington cock, ditto, White Plymouth Rock cock and hen, Brahma cock, White Crested Polish hens, Rose Comb Frizzle, Crested Frizzle, and Rhode Island Red Cocks.

COMMENTS ON POULTRY.
In the white Leghorn Cocks class Mr. F. H. Dillon's entry won well out of eleven entries. This bird was nice in size, had a fair comb, and good legs. Unfortunately, it was not in the pink of condition, and its lobes were very poor. The second bird, had a neat and well serrated comb, but small lobes and body; while the third bird was a medium specimen in rather poor condition.

In the section for white Leghorn hens Mr. M. B. Frost's exhibit won the prize. It had a good serrated comb, nice yellow legs and beak, but was a little coarse in lobe. Its shape was excellent, but it required more size. The second and third birds, although possessing nice combs and good coloured legs, were out of condition and small in size, with creasy lobes.

The winner of the Black Orpington Cocks belonged to Mr. J. C. Wong. A very pretty and massive bird, it had a broad back, nice cushion, and good feathering, but was slightly defective in its feet. The second bird ran the winner very close. Mr. H. B. L. Dowbiggin's exhibit, which won in the class for hens, was a large bird having no discernible faults whatever. The second bird was almost equally good.

There was only one exhibitor—Mr. A. Karmm—in the class for game hens and cocks, any variety, and naturally he carried off the honours. His birds were big and bony with plenty of reach, though the legs were a little faulty.

In the class for Plymouth Rock cocks, Mr. J. C. Wong's specimen, which won easily, was a magnificent bird, being nicely barred and having plenty of bone. Its weak points were the legs and the colouring of its feet. The second bird, although not so massive, ran the winner pretty close. Mr. J. D. Wilkinson's bird was adjudged best in the hen section. It was very massive and nicely barred, but here, again, there was a slight defect in the feet. The second bird required more size.

Of the three entries in the section for Langshan hens, Mr. Kynoch's exhibit won easily, though not so large as could have been wished. Amongst the unclassified cocks Mr. E. V. M. R. de Sousa's Rhode Island Red was facile princeps. It had a good deep colour throughout, but required a little more size. The second bird Langshan, was pretty, but the colour of its eyes was too light. The Silver Camptown exhibit by Mrs. R. M. Dyer was a nicely pencilled bird, with a clear beak. The comb was not sufficiently serrated, however, and the lobes were slightly creasy. Mrs. Dyer's Black Minorca in the hen section had a good body, nicely serrated comb, and good lobes, and was in good condition. The Brahma, which came second, had good colour, but required a little more foot feathering.

At 5.15 p.m. the prizes were distributed to the winners by Lady Rees Davies, who was presented with a bouquet of flowers, in a silver vase, by Mr. G. W. Gegg, the Hon. Secretary, amid cheers.

THE DOG SHOW

The most one can say about the dogs was that there were several extremely good specimens, and several poor ones. The opinion was expressed that Mr. A. H. Taylor's "Dunadoo Darkie," which carried off the cup for the best dog in the show, was one of the best fox-terriers ever exhibited in Hongkong. Those few who were surprised at the decision did not realise that "Dunadoo Darkie" is a new breed of fox-terrier, in which a long, well set head and nose is a recommendation that cannot be overlooked. Moreover, the dog was in splendid condition, and had the best ears among the fox-terriers bunched. Its only faulty point, a point that will be more evident next year is its hind legs, which are not as straight or firm as they should be. He was the only dog with the real fox-terrier tail.

Mr. Leo Longinotto's "Ch. Ricardo Belle," the champion bitch in last year's show, repeated her former success. She stood out head and shoulders above her rivals, so that there was no difficulty whatever in awarding the cup. We hope that the show Committee will offer a championship cup for the best animal in the show, either dog or bitch. It is probable that if such a cup had been awarded on Saturday it would have gone to Mr. Longinotto's bitch rather than to Mr. Taylor's dog, though another entry that would have had to be very seriously considered was Mr. Dowbiggin's unnamed Airedale. This dog has only been in the Colony about a month, and when he gets a good coat, will have all the points of a champion. He was undoubtedly one of the best pedigreed animals shown on Saturday.

"As a class the fox-terriers were very fair. "Dunadoo Darkie" had the most points. Its forelegs were a feature. As were also its ears. "Priscilla," which won the fox-terrier's cup last year, is showing signs of age, especially in its gait. "Magnet," which was given third place, lost points owing to its badly shaped ears.

Seven "handsome" bull-dogs were shown, and though all, except "Mike," seemed rather long in the legs, they were considered excellent entries for Hongkong. Not one of them had the arched legs or was quite ugly enough to get into a championship class at home. The judges found no difficulty in deciding that Mr. Wildin's "Mike" was the best of the bunch. It has a massive head, with a good protruding nose, and was very solid in the body. "Nannie," given second place, would have beaten "Mike" but that it showed a trace of internal trouble. "William Caratacus" was a very good dog, but lost points because it was too long in the legs. Mr. A. Ritchie's "Joek," which won in this class last year, was very highly commended—an indication of the better class of entry.

In the bull-terrier class "Ch. Ricardo Belle" had more points than Mrs. W. J. Hill's "Ricardo." The winner is a fine animal, one of the best bull-terriers ever seen in the Colony, and, probably, one of the best in the East.

There was no question whatever that Mr. Dowbiggin's unnamed dog was the best of the Airedales. In spite of the obvious signs of a recent voyage, it outpointed Mr. Pearce's "Mike," which won in this class last year.

The Chow dogs were good as a whole, though nothing extraordinary. The winner was a real type of chow, and was shown in splendid coat. As a matter of fact, there was very little to choose between "Boris" and "Sandy," last year's winner, which the judges placed second on this occasion. Perhaps, "Boris" won on its more typical gait. "Punch," to which the judges gave third place, was not considered quite true to type. "Laidie" should grow into a fine dog.

The pointers were such an even lot that the judges took a great deal of time over them. There was scarcely anything to choose between "Prince" and "Victoria Tiny." Both had good ears and legs, and the opinion was that the cup went to "Prince" because of its slightly better condition. "Flora" is a fine-looking bitch, which is expected to do better next year. "Prince" is a good class of pointer.

All, except one, of the seven setters bunched appeared to be in poor condition. Mr. Xavier's "Judge" was the exception, and, in spite of its being rather big about the head, the judges decided in its favour. Had Mr. Xavier's bitch "Snow" been in anything like show condition she would have carried off the premier honours, for she was undoubtedly the best type of setter with a gait that marked her out from among the others.

The judges met their most difficult task in Class H, the Japanese spaniels, or pugs as they are sometimes called. So many of the little dogs shown were so typical of their class and the judges had to go into every little detail before selecting four out of the nine from which to make their final decision. There was a great deal of walking backwards and forwards, whether as a parade for examination of the dogs' gait or the ladies' dresses is not certain, though both were a success. The decision hung in the balance for fifteen minutes. The judges finally gave the verdict that "Miss Wildin's" "Peggy" had it. "Peggy" won mainly on its splendid marking, for, in condition and coat, it could not be said to have been better than either "Kino" or "Chiyo," which were placed second and third respectively. "Peggy's" nose and eyes were added recommendations. Mrs. Harrington's "Chiyo" last year's winner, deserved better than third place, for it was in the pink of condition and was almost as well-marked as "Peggy." Mrs. Quarles van Ufford's "Jimmie" attracted great attention because it was a miniature animal with the best gait of the whole bunch. Had it been in better show condition, "Jimmie" would have come at least second in this class.

Of the three spaniels bunched, Capt. Mitchell's "Sammy" had all the outstanding points and there was no question that it was the best. The spaniels exhibited formed a new class this year. Last year "Sammy" obtained first prize among the uncatagorized breeds.

The class for uncatagorized breeds attracted only four entries, and they must be set down as poor. Being of four different descriptions, they were hard to judge. Mr. Ward's Samoyede "Rex," which was second last year, advanced to first place. Few favoured the retriever, which, light in eye and bone, was a poor specimen of a retriever.

PROPOSED INSURANCE AMALGAMATION.

UNION SOCIETY OF CANTON AND NORTH CHINA CO.

We are informed that an offer has been made by the Union Insurance Society of Canton, Ltd., to the North China Insurance Co., Ltd., with a view to the possible amalgamation of these two Companies, and, subject to the consent of shareholders, a provisional agreement has been entered into and signed by the Chairmen of the respective Boards and by the respective General Managers.

The scheme for the fusion of the Society and the Company is as follows:—

The Society to issue new Gold shares (out of their capital which, when authorised, will consist of £2,000,000, divided into 200,000 shares of the nominal value of £10 each, on which the sum of £4 will be paid up on each share) and allot them to the Company's shareholders in exchange for their shares in the ratio of one and a half Gold shares in the Society for each one share in the Company.

The Society, in addition, to make payment to the shareholders in the Company of the sum of £5 Sterling in cash for each one share in the Company held by such shareholders.

We understand that, in the event of the proposed scheme being carried into effect, the Society will take over the whole of the Company's staff, but the entity of the North China Insurance Company, Ltd., will be preserved, its Head Office and Court of Directors, remaining in Shanghai as heretofore. In other words, the North China Insurance Company, Ltd., will remain an entirely separate Company, the only difference being that the shareholders will participate in its profits through the shares, which, if the amalgamation becomes effective, they will receive in the Union Insurance Society of Canton, Ltd., which Society will become the chief shareholder.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE POLICE RESERVE

[TO THE EDITOR OF "THE HONGKONG
DAILY PRESS."]

SIR,—The Armistice was signed on November 11th, 1918, and men who have been demobilized from the Army since that date are arriving in Hongkong. The Hongkong Police Reserve Force, however, is still carrying on its arduous war-time work, though its chief has left on a holiday. Members of the Hongkong Defence Corps are now enjoying an easy time, but the Police Reserves are suffering not only duties but heavy fines and extra patrols for slight defaults.

In 1915 when the force comprised half its present number only two duties a month were detailed to each man. It has been generally noticed that a large number of men have not been seen on duty for some considerable time; these men, though only ordinary constables in rank, apparently have influence.

Substitutes (professionals in the force) are now holding out for $5 for a single duty, as compared with $2 before the Armistice. I know of cases in which married men drawing a meagre salary are paying substitutes in order to be free to take their wives and children to cine-matographs and other places of amusement on Saturdays and Sundays.

Recently a P.C. was awarded C.B. Is that right? Has the Force the power to condemn a man to detention when duties are done gratis?

It is high time that some men who have the right to be demobilized, Yours, etc.,

"AWFULLY FED UP."
Hongkong, 12th April, 1919.

[The extra duties were imposed in order to release Regulars for the Front. Later, search supervision on the wharves was entrusted to the Reserve. The employment of paid substitutes is, of course, contrary to the regulations. The power to inflict punishments is given by Ordinance.—Ed., H.D.P.]

OPIUM CASES.

At the Magistracy, on Saturday, an old Chinese woman was charged, before Mr. G. N. Orme, with being in unlawful possession of two tins of prepared opium.

Defendant was arrested on the Canton wharf, and the opium was discovered concealed underneath her jacket.

Defendant stated that she brought the opium from Annam.

Mr. Orme fined her $200.

A young Chinese woman was charged with being in unlawful possession of 6½ tins of opium.

Defendant, who was going aboard the "Fletcher," was stopped by Sergeant Fallon. Her luggage was searched, and the opium was found concealed underneath the lining of the box.

Mr. Orme imposed a fine of $900, with the alternative of four months' hard labour.

HONGKONG, APRIL 14th, 1919.

CHINA AND EXTRA-
TERRITORIALITY.

If all the reports be correct, and they are so unanimous on this point that it is difficult to believe otherwise, one of the principal demands that the Chinese delegates will make at the Peace Conference will be for the abolition of extra-territoriality. We have never questioned the theoretical desirability of this change—it has, indeed, been formally admitted by Treaty—but, unfortunately, it is impossible to overlook the practical difficulties that stand in the way. Like many other reforms, excellent though they would be if made when the time is ripe, any premature action would be fatal, and the abolition of extra-territoriality at too early a date would, we are convinced, be fraught with grave peril. By the Mackay Treaty Great Britain has bound herself "to relinquish her extra-territorial rights which she is satisfied that the state of the Chinese laws, the arrangement for their administration, and other considerations warrant her in so doing." We wonder whether any wealthy Chinese merchant who has been involved in a case in his own courts would contend that the arrangements for the administration of justice are so perfect that foreigners could safely dispense with this right. The Chinese merchant would, in all probability, express regret that he had not this right himself. In passing, we may notice a curious objection to the form of this article that is raised by Dr. M. T. Z. TYAN in his book "China's New Constitution and International Problems." He suggests that to make the consent to the abolition of extra-territoriality perfect it should have been coupled with either a probationary time-limit clause or an honour clause. What exactly he means by this latter alternative we can hardly comprehend; we should have thought that honour and good faith were implied in every article of every Treaty, though there certainly is evidence that this implication is not always regarded very seriously by the Chinese Government, as witness its attitude towards its Treaty obligations on mining, reform of weights and measures, and the coinage system. As for the probationary time-limit, we do not see what useful purpose this would serve; extra-territoriality is to be abolished on the fulfilment of a definite condition precedent, whether this end be attained in five years or fifty. On this point, again, Dr. TYAN is singularly unfortunate in his argument. "In proof of this," he says, "we may remember the spirit of the Sino-British campaign against the growing importation, and consumption of opium, which began in December, 1907, and scheduled to be spread over ten years, was finally crowned with success in April, 1913." Yet, in 1919, opium is still being grown on a large scale in many parts of China, and even with official recognition.

The last few years have brought into the strongest relief a new argument against the abolition of extra-territoriality—or one, at least, that has not received much attention heretofore. Such features as the absence of trial by jury, the torture of prisoners, and the venality and poor qualifications of judges have always been recognized as cogent reasons for the retention of extra-territoriality, but all these are trifling in comparison with the position under martial law. Nowadays any Tuchen declares martial law when he feels so disposed; and under this martial law makes any regulations he wishes, absolutely unfettered by the civil authority, and fixes arbitrarily the penalty for breach of these regulations. Without extra-territoriality, foreigners in Hanan would be at the mercy of CHANG CHING-YAO; in any one of the belligerent provinces they would be summarily and arbitrarily mulcted in any levy on capital that the local General felt disposed to make to replenish his military chest; there would even be no legal reason to prevent their being haled off and made to act as baggage coolies for the advancing (or, more probably, retreating) troops. Without extra-territoriality foreigners would stand in exactly the same position as Chinese, to whom all these, and many more, are normal incidents of martial law. Extra-territoriality is, therefore, the only safeguard that foreigners have against such despotic treatment. With such a state of affairs, can Messrs. LU CHENG-HSIANG and C. T. WANG hope to make out a shadow of a case for foreigners giving up their Treaty privileges in this respect? We are sorry to have to say it, but we think the obstacles to the abolition of extra-territoriality are greater now, in this 8th year of the Republic, than they were before the Revolution. It will take many a year to efface from the memory of the Powers the things that have been done in China under martial law.

AN IMPORTANT MERGER.

The proposal of the Union Insurance Society of Canton, Ltd., to effect an amalgamation with the North China Insurance Co., Ltd., of Shanghai, following so closely upon the Society's scheme for the conversion of its capital from silver to gold, is of particular interest. The North China Insurance Co.'s capital consists of 10,000 shares of £15 each, of which £5 has been called and paid up; the provisional agreement is ratified by the shareholders of the Union of Canton will pay out £20,000 in cash and issue a further 15,000 of its new gold shares. Assuming that the increase in its authorized capital to £3,000,000 and the other recommendations of its Directors are finally confirmed, its issued capital will be 11,000 shares of £10 each, or £1,100,000, on which £444,000 will stand as paid-up capital.

The Union Insurance Society of Canton, Ltd., has been more than over the fore of late, and it may be doubted whether any Company in any part of the world has given evidence of post-war activities at such an early stage. The difficulties attending insurance in war-time are well-known to those who have dealings therewith, and it should afford great satisfaction to all connected with the Union to see that while giving unparalleled service to the public generally it constantly bears in mind the interests of its shareholders. A review of the Society's reports for the last ten years makes astounding reading, and the annual report covering the twelve months ended December 31st last, which should shortly be published, is no doubt being looked for with more than usual interest in view of the fact that it will complete the figures appertaining to the serious times from which Great Britain and the allied nations have emerged so victoriously.

Orders have been issued for the cruisers and other warships of the East Indies Squadron and the China Squadron to be re-painted white—once the familiar colour of all ships east of Suez. During the war the ships of those squadrons were painted the grey colour of the ships on home service.

A Chinese, banished from Hongkong for ten years, returned to the Colony last June and was sentenced to 9 months' hard labour for larceny. When he came out of goal on Saturday, he was re-arrested on a charge of returning from banishment and sentenced by Mr. Lindell to another 9 months' hard labour.

Mr. Orme sentenced him to six weeks' hard labour.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

"WAIT AND SEE"

PARIS, April 8th.

Mr. Lloyd George, interviewed in Paris, emphatically declared that there was no difference of opinion among the negotiators, but they were often faced with technical difficulties, which could only be solved after a thorough examination.

For example, as regards reparation, the Allies had one common principle, namely, that Germany must pay to the last penny that she was able to pay, but it was insufficient to draft a note and present it to the enemy. It was necessary to demand guarantees, to study methods of payment, and be in a position to say to the enemy, when he pleaded insufficiency of his resources, that he must do this and give that.

That meant some difficult work which was complicated by the fact that the most capable experts did not agree on methods of liquidation or the assets to be collected.

Mr. Lloyd George, replying to a remark by his interviewer that the public was unable to understand why, before everything else, Germany was not presented with a bill and compelled first of all to acknowledge her debt, said:—

"Who says we are not doing that? Who says we have not decided on that. Can the people not wait until we have finished and judge our work instead of our intentions? Let the public wait a few days. It would then be able to give its views, not on rumours but on facts."

INDEMNITIES.

LONDON, April 10th.

Mr. Lloyd George's telegram to Mr. Kennedy Jones was in reply to a telegram signed by over 200 members of the House of Commons declaring: "The greatest anxiety exists owing to persistent reports from Paris that the British delegates, instead of formulating the complete financial claims of the Empire, are merely considering what amount can be exacted from the enemy. Our constituents expect that the first action of the delegates will be, as you repeatedly stated in your election speeches, to present the bill in full, make Germany acknowledge the debt, and then discuss the ways and means of obtaining payment."

The telegram was sent on the initiative of Mr. Kennedy Jones and seven other Unionists with a view to "strengthening the hands of the Prime Minister."

TREATY WILL SHORTLY BE READY.

PARIS, April 8th.

Mr. Bonar Law has arrived here to confer with the British delegates on the final terms of the Preliminary Peace Treaty. His arrival is regarded as an indication that actual decisions on the main points of the Treaty have been reached.

The fact that President Wilson cabled to Washington instructing the Navy Department to send the liner George Washington to Brest is being regarded as confirming the belief that the Treaty will shortly be ready.

WHY IS PRESIDENT WILSON RETURNING?

LONDON, April 9th.

President Wilson's request to Washington to hasten the departure of the liner has occasioned an extraordinary crop of rumours in Paris.

The request is interpreted by the French Press and by American correspondents as an indication of his dissatisfaction at the course of the discussions, and a hint that he is prepared to quit the Conference, unless it gets back to his "Fourteen Points" and the Armistice terms, which he feels have been recently ignored.

On the other hand, Reuter's correspondent in Paris learns that the situation in America imperatively requires the presence of the President, who is receiving constant appeals from his political supporters to return.

It is pointed out that President Wilson's signature to the Peace Treaty is unnecessary. Mr. Robert Lansing and Colonel House are fully empowered to represent him at the Conference.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S HOMEWARD JOURNEY.

PARIS, April 11th.

President Wilson has ordered the transport George Washington to depart for France at the earliest time possible.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Mr. F. Roosevelt, has announced that the transport George Washington will leave on Friday, April 18th—American Wireless.

WASHINGTON, April 8th.

The sailing of the George Washington has been altered from April 14th to April 11th.

GENERAL SMUTS RETURNS TO PARIS.

THE FATE OF THE EX-KAISER.

ALLIED DISAGREEMENT.

PARIS, April 8th.

The Council of Four this afternoon discussed the question of responsibility for the war.

French diplomats affirm that Great Britain and France agree that the ex-Kaiser is legally guilty and that his extradition must be demanded, and that he must be brought before an International Court. America, however, whilst admitting the ex-Kaiser's responsibility, does not countenance the taking of legal proceedings against him. It is hoped, a vid media will be found.

RIOTING IN BOMBAY. FOOD CONTROLLER'S OFFICE ATTACKED.

BOMBAY, March 27th.

Discontent among the retail dealers of grain resulted in rioting. Two thousand dealers, armed with bamboos, attacked the office of the Assistant Food Controller and assaulted a Parsi assistant.

A Police enquiry is being held. Up to the present there have been no arrests.

OVERSEAS TROOPS.

A TRIUMPHAL MARCH THROUGH LONDON.

In the House of Lords, replying to Lord Denman and Lord Stanhope, Viscount Peel said that it had been decided that there would be a triumphal march of the Overseas troops through London, but, pending the working out of particulars, he was unable to announce the precise date. He would take into consideration whether the march should consist of complete units with guns, transport and everything.

Viscount Harcourt hoped that no time would be lost, as thousands of Australians and Canadians were leaving for Home daily. He hoped that representatives of troops from the Crown Colonies, many of whom were coloured, as from the West Indies, would be included, in order to receive a tribute to the sacrifices they made.

Viscount Peel said that the Government quite appreciated the point that Overseas troops included men from the Crown Colonies.

BRITISH ARMIES' DEBT TO THE EMPIRE.

STIRRING DESPATCH BY SIR DOUGLAS HAIG.

LONDON, April 10th.

Sir Douglas Haig, in a despatch dated March 21st, describes the advance of the British forces into Germany and the occupation of the Cologne bridgehead.

He briefly reviews the chief features of military interest in the operations of the British Armies on the West Front during the time he commanded them, and thanks those able and gallant officers who assisted him in the task.

Dealing with the new Armies, Sir Douglas Haig says that the whole Empire may be proud of the achievement of building up successfully, in the very midst of war, great new armies on more than the continental scale, capable of beating the best troops of the strongest military nation before the war.

That we were able to accomplish this stupendous task was due partly to the loyalty and devotion of our Allies, and the splendid work of the Navy, but mainly to the wonderful spirit of the British race everywhere in the world.

At the outset, lack of instinctive discipline placed our new troops at a disadvantage, but during the last two years the discipline of all ranks of the new Armies, from whatever part of the Empire they came, was excellent.

The Universities and Public Schools of the Empire had again proved that they were unrivalled in the formation of character, which is the root of discipline.

Not that the Universities and Public Schools enjoyed the monopoly of the qualities of making good officers. The life of the British Empire had generally proved sound under the severest tests; and while giving the men whom it was an honour for any officer to command, it furnished officers of the highest standard from all ranks of society and all quarters of the world.

Promotion had been entirely by merit. The highest appointments were open to the humblest, provided they had the necessary qualifications of character, skill and knowledge.

Many instances could be quoted of men who from civil or comparatively humble occupations had risen to important Commands. For example, a schoolmaster, a lawyer, a taxi-cab driver, and an ex-Sergeant Major had each commanded Brigades, while an editor had commanded a Division.

Sir Douglas Haig concludes with a "very warm and sincere acknowledgment of the great debt of all ranks of the Armies in France to our kinsmen and kinswomen of the British Empire for their unflinching support, by thoughts, prayers and work, throughout the long years of war. Their trust and confidence never wavered. Their labours never ceased. No sacrifices, hardships or privations were too great, provided, thereby, that the needs of the troops might be adequately supplied."

FIGHTING BOLSHEVISM.

From Murmansk it will be in a favourable position to proceed at the first opportunity to the Archangel front. The main force will proceed in two sections.

It is intended that the main force shall consist mostly of volunteers. The War Office will, probably, make an immediate appeal for volunteers not only to the troops of the Armies of Occupation and the men preparing for overseas garrisons, but to discharged and demobilised men.

BOLSHEVIST DEFEAT AT SHREDMECHENGA.

LONDON, April 10th.

A British communiqué from North Russia states:—

The attack on Shredmehenga, on April 5th, was preceded all night long by artillery preparation. The enemy casualties numbered 400.

The main attack was carried out by 2,300 men, exclusive of reserves, divided into three detachments. The first was ordered to carry out a reconnaissance, and the second, with the support of the third, was ordered to capture the village by an attack from the south and the west.

A greater proportion of artillery than usual was employed in this attack. The Bolsheviks' aim was to break through to the Dvina and out of our southernmost troops on this river.

A British official statement from North Russia says:—

A disturbance by Chinese workmen at Murmansk, on April 7th, was soon put down. The majority of the rioters were arrested. Two Red Finn attacks south of Sodeja were repulsed. North Russian troops occupied Gajnavolok on Lake Vigozero, capturing a Bolshevik patrol.

A communiqué states:— During yesterday's disturbances the troops several times were obliged to fire on the mob. Nine were killed and 60 wounded. A number of the casualties was due to a householder wantonly firing on the mob.

QUIET REIGNS.

CAIRO, April 4th.

All is quiet in Cairo to-day.

A DEPUTATION FOR ENGLAND.

LONDON, April 8th.

In the House of Commons, replying to a question regarding the situation in Egypt, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth stated that General Allenby had issued a proclamation stating that, as order, in a great measure, was restored, Egyptians wishing to leave the country were free to do so.

It is understood that a Ministry is now being formed and that a deputation of Ministers will visit England, in response to the invitation already twice given by the British Government.

Replying to Major Wedgwood, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth stated that he understood that General Allenby's proclamation included permission to come to England for persons originally debarred from doing so.

THE LATEST INFORMATION.

LONDON, April 9th.

In the House of Commons, at question-time, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth stated that the latest information was that the situation in Egypt was quiet. No further disturbances had occurred since the riot in Cairo on April 3rd.

WEST AFRICAN CIVIL SERVICE.

FLEA FOR INCREASED PENSIONS.

LONDON, April 9th.

In the House of Commons Mr. Archibald Hurd urged the increase of pensions of West African civil servants in view of the increase in the cost of living.

Col. Amery replied that the West African pensions had been calculated on a specially liberal basis; therefore, there was no special reason for treating West African pensioners more favourably than those of other Colonies.

Lord Milner was well aware of the difficulties of the pensioners owing to the rise in prices. He was consulting the Governments of the Colonies generally in this connection.

GERMANY.

SECOND CONGRESS OF SOVIETS.

COPENHAGEN, April 9th.

The Congress adopted the Independent Socialist motions, demanding the release of Herr Ledebour, the immunity of Socialist members, and that the Congress be held on lines similar to those of the National Assembly.

BAVARIAN SOVIET GOVERNMENT MAY NOT SURVIVE.

LONDON, April 8th.

The latest news of the situation in Bavaria indicates that the Soviet Government in Munich may not long survive. It is reported that, already, dissensions have broken out between the Communists and the Majority Socialists. Opinion in the Bavarian country districts is divided for and against the Soviet Republic.

THE JEWS' PRIDE OF RACE.

The aims and objects of the League of British Jews were explained at a meeting of Jews recently, in West, Hampstead Town Hall by Major Laurie Magnus, M.C. of Sir Philip Magnus. He said there was no room in the league for half-baked Jews, who claimed the privilege of Jewish descent and declined the obligations of Jewish faith. As for the exclusion of foreign Jews, their critics failed to understand that they were united in a national cause. Was there any Jew who had lost a husband or a son in the war who did not repudiate the lying doctrine of a dual nationality?

At St. Andrew's Church, yesterday morning, Commodore Gardner unveiled a tablet to the memory of the late Sergeant Harry Linfield, who was shot by an Indian constable, whilst on duty, on November 18th. There was a large congregation, which included Sir Paul Chater, C.M.G. The Bishop conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. J. W. Harrington. After the reading of the second lesson, the tablet, which is situated on the east side of the Church and was draped with the Union Jack, was unveiled. It bore the following inscription:

"To the memory of Lance-Sergeant Harry Linfield, R.N.Y. Police, who was shot whilst in the execution of his duty on November 18th, at the Kowloon Naval Depot. Aged 37 years."

The Bishop, who preached, took for his text St. John c. 12, v. 23. He said that the world's greatest heroes, the world's greatest benefactors, had given up their lives that we might live in comfort and luxury. All our national privileges, our national safety and prosperity, our very trade had been earned for us by blood, by the sacrifice of men. Yet we honoured men who had made fortunes by the sale of intoxicants and tobacco, and gave them titles and built mausoleums for them, while men who had laid down their lives for the freedom of mankind were forgotten. There was one thing which spurred him to indignation, and that was to see the graves of forgotten British men unmarked for. Many of those graves were covered with weeds, etc., and in them were buried men of the Royal Navy who had come out in the early days of the last century as pioneers and laid down their lives for those who were to follow at Whampoa, Canton and other places. Nobody was able to read the inscriptions on the tombstones, and nobody seemed to care. It almost made him ashamed of being a Briton when in the presence of Chinese, who, at any rate for the most part, cared for the graves of their benefactors and ancestors. Last Sunday he was at Macao and saw the same thing. British graves were neglected. That must not remain the case.

They were determined, at any rate, that this should not be the case with one member of the Royal Navy who had laid down his life in doing his duty bravely. This man belonged to a service which was essentially risky. They had done well to erect a tablet to the memory of Sergeant Harry Linfield, so that all who worshipped in that Church, where he himself worshipped, might be reminded of him and his devotion to duty. He understood that the late Sergeant Harry Linfield was an ardent member of an organisation which honoured the word of God, and he was a man who loved to worship God. They sympathised with his mother and they respected his memory. The grain of wheat that fell into the ground and died would not be unfruitful in our nation. Appropriate hymns were sung, and the "Dead March" was played, the congregation standing.

THE BOXER INDEMNITY.

In the House of Commons on February 20th, Mr. C. Harnsworth, answering Commander Bellairs, said:—No agreement has been made with the Chinese Government to forgo the Boxer Indemnity. In recognition, however, of China's spontaneous entry into the war, his Majesty's Government agreed to the postponement of the payment of their share of the indemnity for a period of five years. No conditions were attached to this postponement, but in informing the Chinese Government of this decision, his Majesty's Government, in concert with the Allied Governments interested, recommended that steps should be taken to encourage German and Austrian houses of business with a view to their ultimate liquidation. The Deutsch-Asiatische Bank is at present in the hands of a European liquidator appointed by the Chinese Government.

GERMANS IN CHINA.

In the House of Commons on February 24th, Colonel Yates asked whether all the Germans formerly employed in the German Consulate, bank, post-office, trading firms, and other places in the British concession of Shanghai, in China, had now been turned out and their losses terminated; and, if not, why this course had not been adopted.

Mr. Cecil Harnsworth replied:—Under a King's regulation issued at the beginning of last November, all enemy leasehold properties in British concessions in China were vested in the Custodian of Enemy Property, who was instructed at the beginning of December to proceed with their sale. As regards the German subjects mentioned, arrangements are being made for their repatriation, and it is hoped that this will take place early next month.

"OUR BOYS."

"THE STUNTS" IN LIGHT COMEDY.

"The Stunts," who have been so successful in vaudeville, both in Hongkong and in Canton, made their first appearance in light comedy at the Theatre Royal, on Saturday, when they staged "Our Boys" before a well-filled house, which included H.E. the Officer Administering the Government and Sir William and Lady Rees Davies. The applause which was accorded to the Company showed that their new venture was much appreciated. Nevertheless, the standard of success attained induces the hope that the company will return to vaudeville in the near future.

"Our Boys" is a very old comedy. The "Boys" are the sons of a pair of typical Englishmen—"Sir Geoffrey Champneys," of high birth and exalted manner, with a feeling of contempt for the "lower orders" which was more common a quarter of a century ago than it is to-day; and "Perkyn Middlewick," a bluff and hearty old fellow who made his money out of butter. The boys come home after travelling together in Europe to find that their fathers are anxious that they should settle down in life. Talbot Champneys, taking up politics and "Charles Middlewick" commerce. As a first step towards the end in view Sir Geoffrey wants to see his son married to "Miss Violet Melrose," an heiress of good birth, while "Perkyn Middlewick" will be quite satisfied if his son marries the heiress' poor cousin, "Mary Melrose," who works her way into everyone's heart by her charm of manner. Each of the boys, however, falls in love with the girl his father does not favour, and, refusing to obey their fathers' directions, they are packed off from home, to sink or swim in busy London. Their efforts to earn a livelihood do not meet with much success, despite their Oxford education, but though on the verge of starvation they are too obstinate to appeal to their parents for help. "Aunt Priscilla," Sir Geoffrey's sister, visits the boys' dingy flat, and while she is cooking them some food she leaves her hat in their room. "Belinda," the maid-of-all-work, has no time to remove this "incriminating" piece of evidence before first the two fathers, and then the two girls, arrive on the scene. Fortunately, "Priscilla" returns, whereupon the hat is explained and everything ends happily.

The play is full of humorous situations. If the most was not made of one or two of these situations, it was due to inexperience on the part of some of those taking part. It will be generally admitted that the third act in which the two "Roman fathers" are impelled by affection to find out how their boys are faring, seemed to go off best. If the infectious humour for which "Perkyn Middlewick" was responsible in the earlier portions of the play was missing, it was compensated for by the droll and undoubtedly clever acting of "Priscilla."

Mr. R. Ashby, as "Perkyn Middlewick" gave a finished portrayal of the most difficult part in the play. He had the bucolic manner tinged with contempt for the "lards and lydes," as he called them, that made his society something of an infliction to his aristocratic neighbour. Mr. Ashby, whose capabilities as an actor are now well known, was largely responsible for the success gained on Saturday, for, besides taking the chief part, he had a great deal to do with the training of the others. As "Sir Geoffrey Champneys," Mr. H. W. Ramsey added to his reputation. He was especially good in the third act, when, with supercilious glance, he looks at the butterman gradually relenting. The contrast between the two characters is then most marked. From the acting of the fathers to that of the sons was a noticeable drop. Mr. Dickson, as "Talbot Champneys," started well, but made too great an effort to maintain the affected accent of a "nut." Mr. Alfred Ramsey, as "Charles Middlewick," was never quite able to enter into the spirit of his part, and always seemed as if in a hurry to say his lines and get off the stage.

Mrs. Thornton, as "Belinda," provided half-an-hour of hearty laughter. Her slatternly habits and appearance were very amusing, and the way she brought tears into the eyes of the two fathers (as well as into the eyes of many in the audience) revealed her as an actress of exceptional merit. Miss Elfrida Edmund, as "Mary Melrose," was more natural than she was in "Pinkie," and made such a very jolly and lovable girl that it was not strange that her lack of money did not mar her matrimonial prospects. Miss Dorothy Razavet impersonated "Violet Melrose," a character which did not demand any great histrionic ability. Miss Gertrude Razavet would have been more convincing as "Aunt Priscilla" if she had been more sedate.

A concerted number which was introduced into the play, at the beginning of the second act, was much appreciated.

An amusing sketch entitled, "The Collaborators" was given as a curtain raiser. Miss Dorothy Razavet and Mr. R. Ashby putting the audience into good humour with their comical efforts at collaboration in the writing of a "highly original" play. Mr. P. A. Rosario, the organiser of "The Stunts" did much strenuous work behind the scenes as stage manager. The "Bocledado Philharmonic" played some pleasing music during the intervals.

PUBLIC AND STRIKERS.
PEOPLE'S DEFENCE LEAGUE.

A public demonstration at Queen's Hall, London, on February 14th, unanimously decided to form a People's Defence League for the purpose of combating Bolshevism and safeguarding the people from further attempts to dislocate the public services. The meeting, which was convened by the National party, was called for the purpose of "considering what steps should be taken to protect patriotic workers and the middle-classes from the peril and suffering caused by unauthorized trade disputes in which they have taken no part." Brigadier-General P. G. Cresswell, M.P., presided, and among those present were Lord Amthill, Lord and Lady Hardwick, Mr. William Boosey, Mr. Harold Cox, Mrs. Dacre Fox, Major Alexander, and Mr. Francis Francis.

The Chairman said numerous letters had been received expressing sympathy with the objects of the meeting. The writer emphasized the point that time had arrived when people who were determined to resist disorder should come together and make plans for the future. He believed in trade unions and collective bargaining between masters and men so long as everything was carried out in a legitimate manner, but it was absolutely vital that when agreements were arrived at they should be kept, and that society should not be disorganized because some factious people decided to tear up these agreements. Industrial peace was no vital that they would go almost any length in order to secure justice to the workers. They wished to ascertain whether the public was prepared to organize itself into a really effective movement for its defence. The extremists had shown that they were out to defy the will of the democracy and to coerce and tyrannize it. The country had got to realize that position.

They had in this a deliberate attempt on the part of a section of Labour to protect out of the stress of the country holding up society. Under their blackmailing effort the extremists wished to impose any terms on the public, regardless of the economic conditions. The movement was Bolshevistic, and behind it were the secret forces of Germany. (Hear, hear.) The result of it all would be a reproduction here of the state of affairs in Russia. In these circumstances, a "Wait and See" policy would be just as disastrous in fighting Bolshevism as it was in fighting Germany during the war. They must meet the Bolshevik propaganda by propaganda of British justice and fair play; meet Bolshevik attacks with counter-attacks; and organize themselves to resist the movement against the country. The great middle classes, which were not much richer than the average skilled miner ("Cries of 'Poorer!'")—the great unorganized classes, and patriotic labour, which was the vast majority of an organized labour—all these were the first to suffer through strikes. Soldiers and sailors suffered also. Were all these great forces going to be so chicken-hearted as to take the lying down? If they did they deserved such a fate as the Bolsheviks would decree. (Hear, hear.) They must show that they would not be bullied, terrorized, or plundered. (Cheers.)

MIDDLE-CLASS TRADE UNION.

Mr. Harold Cox said a great deal of the present trouble was due to the existence among us of too many hard-fisted employers (hear, hear)—too many people who did not see that it was their duty to think of the well-being of their employees as well as the magnitude of their own profits. One such man-minded employer could do good. Much of the general unrest was the outcome of the doctrine of Carl Marx, preached by every Socialist. A great plague might be more destructive than a war, but there was something still more destructive, and that was mental and moral disease. This was Socialism, and it had got to be fought. We should appeal for a voluntary army to go out and teach people the fundamental truths of economics.

Mr. William Boosey moved a resolution declaring that, in view of the sufferings imposed upon all classes of the community during the recent strikes, a people's defence league should be formed for the purpose of resisting Bolshevism and safeguarding the public from further attempts to dislocate the public services, and that representative societies of law-abiding citizens of all classes be invited to appoint delegates to form a committee to draw up the objects necessary to carry out those aims. They desired, said Mr. Boosey, to strengthen the hands of the Government. An organized minority was always in a position to tyrannize an unorganized majority, and the middle classes, from time immemorial had been the sufferers, because they had never been organized. (Hear, hear.) There were various methods by which the public could protect themselves. They could and should organize, to take the place of the men who struck against the advice of their accredited leaders. (Hear, hear.) The middle classes should form a trade union and go on strike themselves—they had just as good a right to strike as anybody else. The Germans had done it in some towns; why should not we?

Prebendary Gough, of the British Workers' League and the National Democratic Labour Party, said that there was nothing in the resolution that was open to criticism on democratic grounds. No country could be called democratic that was governed by one class only, or in the interests of one section only. Democracy meant a whole nation concerned in its own government. When he came in what was lately the "Front," and later in Germany, he told the soldiers that what was happening in England was not that which was democratic, but that we were threatened with a state of things in which the interests

HOW RED GUARDS AND BLACK GUARDS RULE RUSSIA.

[BY A. STANLEY.]

I am one of the fortunate few who have recently eluded the garroting hand of the Red Terror. The people in England have not yet realised what that terror means, and the causes from which it springs. Some of them will be astounded to hear that 90 per cent. of the Russian population are absolutely anti-Bolshevist, and that Russia is ruled by an elaborately organised minority.

The millions of illiterate peasants are powerless in the hands of the unscrupulous clique that now dominates all Russia. Throughout the country sporadic riots against the Bolsheviks are taking place, but they are suppressed in blood by the Red Guard detachments. The leaders of the Red Guard are Lenin and Trotsky are Jews and Letts. The Bolsheviks have a secret service whose head is a merciless woman, Mme. Jacolevna, successor of the notorious Trotsky. This lady signed a few months ago a warrant for the arrest of a young man with a smile on her face. In the earlier stages of the Red Terror the aristocracy and the bourgeoisie were permitted to work for their livelihood. Generals of the old army sold newspapers and ladies served as waitresses in the public restaurants. All private occupations have since been forbidden to them except when recommended by two Bolsheviks. They are now serfs. Shopkeepers were once allowed to retain their customers and provide for them. The shops are being gradually closed down.

STARVATION.

People are dropping down in the streets of Petrograd and Moscow through sheer starvation. I saw a woman pick up a rotten apple and eat it with gusto. The dustbins are being searched for scraps of food.

At a railway station restaurant I was lucky enough to get a small piece of meat. As soon as I had finished my meal, a past an aristocratic-looking man who was standing close by reached for the bone I had left on my plate, and gnawed at it like a wild beast.

Daily I have seen officers arrested in the streets by the Red Guards. As they passed along with their captives, the populace made the sign of the Cross. They knew that these unfortunates were going to death with a short shrift. I heard from a friend in one of the prisons that every day between seventy and a hundred officers were led out into the prison yard for execution.

Requests for being despatched through the provinces for corn and cattle. Of 100 Red Guards sent, sometimes only five or ten return. The peasants occasionally put up a bloody fight for their harvest and their beasts. They suffer for this. The Bolshevik Government has sent 1,000 Red Guards to the nearest village with orders to slay and spare not.

NO SMILES.

Every one in Petrograd is registered, and every house and block of flats is controlled by a so-called committee of poverty, who principally consist of loafers and beggars. At every hour of the day and night the sign of the Cross is in the ranks of the Bolsheviks. I have not seen a single smiling face since the Red Terror choked freedom.

It is an old saying that in the kingdom of the blind the one-eyed is king. There is considerable reason in this, as there is in most old sayings. In the Russia of to-day the loafers control the workers, and the blackguards constitute the Red Guards.

As to the future of this extraordinary movement, whereby thousands hold millions in thrall, Lenin and Trotsky are too wily to suppose that this idyllic state for them personally can last long. Their aim is union with the German Spartacist Party, and the Red Flag over both countries. In this matter the German officers in the Baltic Provinces who are going to the back Bolsheviks are playing into their hands. All these officers are Bolsheviks of the Russian breed, and carrying that propaganda back into Germany. Trotsky and Lenin and the Russian militarists entertain the fond hope that this will enable them to sustain a new war on both the German and Russian fronts.

—Express.

of the nation were being set on one side by a small group who claimed to dominate the nation in their own interests. Direct action by individuals was treason against the democracy. These were the people who during the war worked against their own countrymen, and they included almost all the conscientious objectors. Bolshevism out-did even Prussianism and Kaiserism. Most of the soldiers were trade unionists, but how many of them attended their lodges? They did not go because they were good average Britons, and they did not care about managing affairs. They were sound at heart. He was not afraid of Bolshevism in the country, as he knew what the restriction of the manual labourers was. The people who were against England during the war and who had helped to foment the strikes were a very small minority. What we needed was a Government who realized the dignity of Government. It was not the initiative in any great movement that the Government had not taken. We must demand that the Government should hold the enemies of the public in check.

Proposing a vote of thanks to the chairman, Mrs. Dacre Fox said a German-Bolshevik decree issued after the Brest-Litovsk Treaty and circulated throughout Russia, read:

"In times gone by pretty women belonged exclusively to the bourgeoisie; now all women between 18 and 30 years are requisitioned three times a week for three hours each time for the use of any citizen who requires them. Male relatives of these women who protest against this decree will be judged at once, and, if necessary, punished by death. If you will understand why I stand here, this afternoon," said Mrs. Fox, amid cheers.
